Brenden Mann Foundation Funds Pepperdine University's Israel Internship Program

Pepperdine University has been awarded $100,000 to fund the Israel Internship Program, a study abroad program created in 2010 by the Diane and Guilford Glazer Institute for Jewish Studies. The gift comes from the Las Vegas-based Brenden Mann Foundation, founded by Johnny Brenden after the family foundation created by his grandfather Ted Mann, the head of Mann Theatres. The Brenden Mann Foundation supports numerous Arts, Education, Health, Social Service, and Religious organizations. The $100,000 will allow the Glazer Institute to cover housing, airfare, educational tours, and health insurance for up to ten students and three staff members for the June 2013 trip. Additionally, the donated funds will greatly assist the preparatory work on the ground in Israel done by the Israeli Coordinator.

Since its establishment in 2010, the Glazer Institute has reached more than 3,500 members of the Pepperdine community and has supported almost 300 students in life-changing trips to Israel. Michael Helfand, Associate Director of the Glazer Institute, notes that "the Israel Internship Program remains unique in that it places students in internship assignments that parallel their career goals, while providing professional experience in an Israeli work environment within the Jewish nation. Each of these interns has begun to transform the Pepperdine campus into a forum engaged in intellectual discussion, with open dialogue and various perspectives on religion and the Middle East."

"Israel is a place you hear about in the news. It is a land mentioned time and time again in ancient history class or Religion 101. However, it wasn't until I stepped off of the airplane in Tel Aviv and filled my lungs with the salty sea air that I realized Israel is not just a land of stories but a promised land with a pounding pulse, a land where history is not sedentary but perpetually being made and shaping the lives of its people."

—Chelsie Corbett, Seaver student
