

He Is Risen!

My personal prayer time is a daily reminder of how small I really am, and how dependent I am upon my faith. When all else fails, I have my faith.

In the stillness of those pre-dawn hours, alone with my thoughts and my expressions of gratitude, devotion and supplication, those moments fill me with awe and wonder at the anticipation created by the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Christians find joy in the birth of Christ and hope in his resurrection, foretold in Scripture.

On a Sunday morning, very soon, my wife and I will commemorate Easter with other Christian believers. Whether silently or triumphantly, in services across the United States and around the world, each of us will proclaim the essence of our faith, the source of our confidence and hope: He is risen! Nothing else matters.

Andrew K. Benton
President, Pepperdine University