NOTICE: UPPER DIVISION EXPERIENTIAL COURSE WORK AND PRO BONO SERVICE REQUIREMENTS:

All students beginning the first year of their JD program after May 1, 2014 are required to have completed at least 15 units of practice-based, experiential course work, and 50 hours of qualifying pro bono service as defined by the California State Bar. Courses approved by the Vice Dean as counting towards the upper division experiential course work requirement will be identified in the course schedule for each semester. Courses that provide an opportunity to fulfill the writing requirement and the skills requirement for students beginning the first year of their JD program before May 1, 2014 are identified in the schedule. For more information about these requirements, please see sections 14.12 and 14.13 of the Academic Policy Statement at <http://law.pepperdine.edu/current-students/academic-policy-forms.htm>

NEW COURSES BEING OFFERED-SPRING 2016

CURRENT ISSUES IN RACE, ETHNICITY, INCLUSION, AND THE LAW (2 units)

In response to the increasing tensions on university campuses nationwide, this course entitled “Current Issues in Race, Ethnicity, Inclusion and the Law” aims to examine how and why race, racism, racial preferences and racial biases inform and shape our legal structures and impact the legal decision-making process, and to provide a classroom workshop for enhancing inclusiveness through teaching projects. The first week will focus on a preliminary exploration of different views of what race means and what constitutes racism. Then, each week the course will examine the historical and legal background of each of these major racial groups in the United States: African Americans, Native Americans, Latino Americans, Asian Americans and White Americans. With this historical and legal background, the second half of the semester will focus on current issues involving race and ethnicity in the news, and ways to enhance inclusiveness in the law school, the university, and in the larger community. Groups of students will research, prepare and conduct events, including panel discussions, lectures or other means of opening dialogue about race and ethnicity on campus and in the larger community. Each student group will lead one event, and assist in one event led by another group. Groups will rehearse their events in class, with feedback provided by the other class participants.

DOING JUSTICE WITHOUT DOING HARM (1 unit)

Our religious and moral traditions call on us to serve those in need and to “do justice” (Micah 6:8); they also call on us to “do no harm” (Hippocrates). Individuals, groups, and laws often cause harm as they attempt to do good. Attempts to help can generate dependence or harm bystanders. The work of governments and NGOs can undercut local institutions that might address local problems. Laws can have unintended consequences that do greater harm than good. We need to make a difference, but to do so wisely. Conference speakers include Gary Haugen (International Justice Mission); Brian Fikkert, (co-author of “When Helping Hurts”); Rabbi Elliot Dorff, (American Jewish University); and Nicholas Wolterstorff (Yale University). For further information, see the conference website at <http://law.pepperdine.edu/nootbaar-institute/annual-conference/default.htm>. Students enrolled in this course will prepare a reflection paper on the papers and presentations and a book review of one of the speaker’s books.

ENTREPRENEURSHIP LAW PRACTICUM (2 units)

This course will examine the legal issues associated with starting and operating a new business, such as the choice of entity; management, governance and succession issues in a closely held business; venture capital and debt financing arrangements; protecting a new company’s intellectual property; employment and executive compensation issues; operating contracts; and ethical issues facing attorneys who represent entrepreneurs. The course is taught by local practicing attorneys and entrepreneurs and will focus on real and/or hypothetical case studies. Students will work in groups to conduct research, prepare client correspondence, and draft legal documents related to the case studies. In this Pass/Fail course students will be evaluated based on their written work and class participation. There is no final examination.

LOW INCOME TAXPAYER CLINIC (3 units)

The Low Income Taxpayer Clinic provides direct legal representation to low income taxpayers at the Pepperdine Legal Aid Clinic in downtown Los Angeles. Under attorney supervision, LITC students represent taxpayers in disputes with the Internal Revenue Service, including audits, appeals, collection matters, and federal tax litigation. In addition, the clinic provides taxpayer education programs to various social services organizations and community groups.

RESTORATION AND JUSTICE CLINIC (3 units)

The Restoration and Justice Clinic provides diverse, civil legal services for victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, prostitution and human trafficking. Under faculty supervision, students provide civil legal services to promote clients’ empowerment and liberty as they emerge from abuse, violence and exploitation, and may include matters of civil protection orders, family law, civil rights, consumer protection, taxation, housing, immigration, asylum, benefits and human rights. The practice will intersect with criminal law and procedure as clients participate in criminal prosecutions against their abusers. Students will engage in legal research and writing, civil litigation, advice and counsel, multidisciplinary collaboration, negotiation, case evaluation and multiple forms of advocacy. With intensive classroom instruction and guidance, students will learn and apply substantive law, interview clients and evaluate matters, draft and file legally operative documents, research and analyze law and policy, advise and counsel clients, make oral and written presentations to clients, communities and collaborators, and represent clients in court.

TAX POLICY (3 units)

This course offers an opportunity for students to read and react to articles in progress on cutting-edge topics in tax policy. There will be seven presentations during the semester by tax professors from other law schools. In advance of each presentation, students will read the work-in-progress (along with assigned background reading) and prepare short (3-5 page) reaction papers. At each presentation, students will pose questions to the professor presenting the work-in-progress. After each presentation, students will critique the presentation and work-in-progress. Other Pepperdine faculty and local practitioners may attend the presentations.

REVISED COURSE TITLES AND DESCRIPTIONS – SPRING 2015

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE LAW SEMINAR (Revised Course Description for Spring 2015)

This seminar introduces students to Domestic Violence law and policies, and provides students with an opportunity to conduct in-depth research into cutting edge topics in Domestic Violence Law. This course is designed to critically examine and expound upon the psychological dynamics underlying domestic violence, the construction of victim's rights and remedies within civil and criminal laws, and the policies and practices that implement these laws. First, each student will select, present, and lead a critical discussion on a scholarly article on a domestic violence topic. Second, each student will choose a topic of interest and write a research paper that satisfies the rigorous Upper Division Writing Requirement. Each student will make a presentation to the group explaining the results of her or his research during the second half of the semester.

RACE AND ANTI-DISCRIMINATION LAW (Previously called Race and the Law Seminar)

This course will study how different legal systems conceptualize equality, and the cultural, social, and historical forces that impact discrimination and shape anti-discrimination laws and practices. It provides an overview of federal and state constitutional and statutory antidiscrimination law, in comparison with and in contrast to international laws, covenants, treaties and conventions. Contexts such as employment, affirmative action, marriage and reproductive rights, hate speech, free exercise and establishment of religion will be addressed. The course will focus on discrimination based on race, ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, and religion, with some attention to other characteristics.

Clinical and Externship Courses Notes-Spring 2016

Clinics:

Students receive credit for the scheduled, required class sessions and for work in the clinic under faculty supervision.

In the Legal Aid, Special Education, and Ninth Circuit Appellate Advocacy clinics students and professors will determine the work schedule for students in the clinics. The Community Justice Clinic, the Special Education Advocacy Clinic, and the Restoration and Justice Clinic meet and work primarily on-campus in the clinical suite.

In the Ninth Circuit Appellate Advocacy Clinic, students must apply and register only with approval of the professor, and students must commit to working two terms in the clinic.

In the Legal Aid Clinic, students will work primarily at the Union Rescue Mission in downtown Los Angeles. In the Ninth Circuit Appellate Advocacy Clinic, students will work primarily with the professor at his firm in Encino. All classes will be at the School of Law.

The Fair Employment and Housing Mediation Clinic will be housed in the Mediation Division at California's civil rights enforcement agency, The Department of Fair Employment and Housing. There may be potential employment opportunities with this placement. The Department hires a Civil Rights Fellow for a year fellowship after law school and approximately 50% of Fellows are retained for permanent employment in the litigation department. This class requires a special application. Anyone interested in participating should speak with Professor Stephanie Blondell in the Straus Office.

In the Mediation Clinic students have the opportunity to mediate actual disputes. The Mediation Clinic will require 2 hours of class time weekly (scheduled) and approximately 8 hours of fieldwork per week. Students are advised to leave two time blocks (2 mornings, 2 afternoons or 1 of each) in their schedule to accommodate mediations at various courthouses throughout Los Angeles County.

All clinical courses fulfill the Pro Bono Service Requirement and are graded as High Pass/Pass/Credit/Fail.

Externships:

Students interested in participating in an externship in the Spring 2016 term should contact Professor Adamson, Director of Externships, at terry.adamson@pepperdine.edu through the end of the Fall 2015 term or Donna Brabec, Clinical Program Manager, at donna.brabec@pepperdine.edu. After January 1, 2016 students should contact Professor Richard Peterson at richard.peterson@pepperdine.edu. Students may not register themselves for externship courses but must complete the requisite paperwork and must receive approval from Prof. Adamson or Prof. Peterson to register for an externship.

Students must register for an externship by the deadline for add/drop; students who secure a field placement after the add/drop deadline will be limited may only enroll for up to 2 units of credit and must secure a faculty advisor.

Each unit of externship credit requires 52.5 hours of work at the student's field placement, and students must register in advance for the number of units for which they will work. Students may earn up to 10 units.

Students must also attend mandatory, bi-weekly externship workshops during the term of their first externship, and the time spent in workshops may count toward the students' required time in the field. Students who are taking externships for the second or third term are not required to attend the workshops.

The Director of Externships must approve all field placements in advance of registration. In general, field placements qualify for externship credit if the student is engaged in legal work, under the supervision of a licensed attorney, not for pay, in judicial, governmental, public interest or public service law offices. Field placements in in-house counsel offices in entertainment and other corporate offices may also qualify. Work in private, for-profit law firms does not qualify unless the student's work is exclusively on pro bono matters.

Externships taken for 3 units or more fulfill the upper division skills requirement or count towards the experiential learning requirement. All externships are graded as High Pass/Pass/Credit/Fail.

Practicums:

For the Federal Criminal Practice Practicum, when announced, students must submit a letter of interest, resume and writing sample for lawyers at each field placement to rank their preferred candidates. The top two students ranked by consensus will be selected to enroll in the course. Upon selection, students must complete a timely background check. Students must meet the minimum requirements outlined in the course description including the pre-requisites classes, Criminal Procedure and Evidence

For the Veterans Law Practicums in Ventura County and in Los Angeles County, students must meet the minimum requirements outlined in the course description. Students must also submit a resume, letter of interest and writing sample for lawyers at the field placement to review and rank their preferred candidates. Students will be selected and notified of their selection in the practicum.

The Veterans Law Practicums and the Federal Public Defender segment of the Federal Criminal Practice Practicum satisfy the pro bono requirement.

Washington, DC Externships:

Students completing an externship as part of the Washington, DC externship semester must enroll in 9 or 10 units of externship. Professor Nancy Hunt must approve all Washington DC externship placements via email at nancy.hunt@pepperdine.edu. All Washington, DC externship students must attend the bi-weekly Washington Externship Workshop.
